GDPR's Lawfulness, Fairness and Transparency data protection principle:

“Personal data shall be processed lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner in relation to the data subject” [Art 5 (1)(a)]

- to monitor your health
- to assess the quality of our services
- to comply with the law regarding data sharing

Most of the information we collect and keep is stored securely on the School's computer servers. This means that school staff can access this information when they need it. The information isn't available to others nor will it be stored on personal devices like tablets, laptops or computers at home, nor will school staff store information about you on their personal accounts such as Outlook or iCloud.

Sometimes the School will need to collect and keep information about you in 'hard copy', such as paper files. The School stores this information safely so that it is used only by those who need it. The School will destroy files relating to your child when they reach the age of 25. If there is safeguarding documentation about you as a result of a referral to Children's Services or the Police, this will be kept securely by the DSP until we have further advice from the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse on how long the data should be retained.

The School will never sell, rent or trade this information about you (known by law as ‘personal data’).

The School will give the information it collects and stores about you to others only if the law says it must or if the school needs to do so to enforce what it is allowed to do by law.

None of our ICT service providers lie outside the EEA and therefore there is no reason why any of your data will be processed outside of the EEA.

Your rights

If you have any questions about how your personal data is used by The Purcell School you may contact c.rayfield@purcell-school.org or the Bursar for more information.
